FOREWORD

This 1992 Election Financing Fact Book is the eighth in a series of such reports that have been produced biennially since 1978 by the Washington State Public Disclosure Commission, pursuant to the Commission's authority as contained in RCW 42.17.370(2) to publish reports and statistics concerning campaign finance so that such information may be fully disclosed to the public.

Material in this book is based on reports filed by the receivers of contributions: candidates and political committees.

This Fact Book records the activities within what may be the last statewide elections in which no statutory limits controlled either campaign contributions or expenditures. Disclosure has been the name of the game to this point. With the passage of Initiative 134 in the 1992 general election, a new era in campaign finance begins for the candidates, political parties, and citizens of Washington. An indication of the impact of Initiative 134 is that at least $9 million of the money reported in this Fact Book as contributions to state executive or legislative candidates in 1992 came to them in amounts greater than those that would be permitted by the initiative or from sources that would not be permitted.

The emphasis of the Fact Book appears to be on big money, the "major" contributors, who are defined for the purpose of this publication as those who gave at least $150 to any committee or candidate (except for the office of governor, where the threshold is $500). Those major contributors indeed accounted for $18.5 million dollars, or 76% of the new contributions reported by the statewide and legislative candidates of 1992. However, in addition to the 24,105 separate major contributions listed in this book, the same candidates received an additional 111,789 contributions from their bases of smaller contributors.

CONDITION OF RELEASE

This publication constitutes a "list of individuals" prepared by the Washington State Public Disclosure Commission and may not be used for commercial purposes [see RCW 42.17.260(5) and AGO 1975 No. 15]. This list is provided on the condition and with the understanding that the person receiving it agrees to the statutorily imposed limitation on its use.

The Givers:
Political Committees

CONTRIBUTORS TO POLITICAL COMMITTEES

Many of the givers most frequently appearing in the prior sections of this Fact Book are political committees. Such committees include the state organizations of the Democratic and Republican parties, the campaign committees operated by members of the Democratic and Republican caucuses in both houses of the state legislature, and a variety of committees (commonly known as PACs) which function as the political action arms of their respective industries, unions, trade associations, or professional societies.

This section of the Fact Book discloses who gave to some of the biggest givers--the contributors reported by the state party committees, the legislative caucus committees, and many of the PACs that were most heavily involved in the 1992 elections.

This section includes the following committees:

Reverse Directory

Reverse Directory

The preceding sections of the 1992 Campaign Finance Fact Book are organized by recipients--the candidates, initiative committees, political parties, caucuses, and other political action committees--and are derived from contributor lists reported by those recipients. In the Reverse Directory, the same information is arranged according to contributors.

The contributors included in the Reverse Directory are those individuals or organizations whose total of reported contributions elsewhere in the Fact Book amounted to $1,000 or more and who were reported as contributors by at least three different candidates or committees.
